

French R&D partners of BioTeSys receive tax relief

Esslingen, 2016-01-26, the BioTeSys GmbH receives the accreditation as research service provider from the MINISTERE DE L'EDUCATION NATIONALE DE L'ENSEIGNEMENT SUPERIEUR ET DE LA RECHERCHE which enables French companies to claim research efforts as tax deductions.

French customers of BioTeSys benefit from the accreditation with a tax relief up to 30 percent of the contract value of the R&D project (Dépenses de recherche). The accreditation by the French Ministry of Higher Education and Research underlines BioTeSys' appearance as a recognized service provider in the fields of analytics, in vitro test systems and in vivo testing.

The so-called Research Tax Credit (Crédit d'Impôt Recherche, CIR) is a political instrument from the French Government in favor of research and innovation. The accreditation applies for the next three years and is intended to enable especially small and medium enterprises (SME) to increase their R & D efforts and to remain competitive.
